THE IMPORTANT THING is to "freeze" or stabilize, certain other things just now. Wages should be frozen, and not permitted to melt away, and this is not said only for the sake of wage-earners, but also for those who get their profit from wages earned.

CAPTAIN HAWKS continues, by deeds not words, as the late Theodore Roosevelt would say, to prove that he is the best flier in the world. He amazed Europe by breaking the record from London to Rome, splitting it in two, then breaking the record from Rome to Paris. Two days ago he broke all records between London and Berlin, and yesterday he broke the record from Berlin to Hamburg.

Captain Hawks is an excellent advertiser of the fact that this country can produce real fliers. And real fliers will settle the next big war.

PUBLIC AIDED IN MANY WAYS BY RED CROSS

Marion County Chapter Provides Diversified Service in Program.

COMMUNITY FUND AGENCY

Nutrition in Schools, Nursing and Veterans' Service Are Among Activities.

The following article dealing with the activities of the Marion County Chapter of the American Red Cross is published by The Star to acquaint Marion residents with the valuable work done by the organization. The chapter is one of the Community Fund agencies which will soon ask Marion citizens to contribute to the support of charity and welfare work in the city for the coming year.

Articles dealing with other fund agencies will follow

The Red Cross, a Community Fund agency, offers Marionites diversified service. Although chartered by congress to relieve distress in time of war and in peacetime emergencies, the Red Cross has sponsored a number of public services, including a comprehensive nursing service, instruction in first aid, swimming and life saving, and nutrition work in the schools.

In its primary function of war service and civilian relief, the chapter during the last year gave some form of assistance to 580 veterans or their dependents, including 98 transients. The chapter handled "red tape" work or formal and detailed applications which netted veterans $10,587 in lump sum compensation awards, and new payments at the rate of $4,900 a month.

Works With Veterans

Until last December, when the Family Welfare Society was formulated to take over all relief work of the fund, the Red Cross had spent $3,127.23 in direct relief. Since that time, the Red Cross has limited its work to relief of veterans or their dependents, suspending civilian relief work.

Last summer the chapter continued its practice of sponsoring a life saving and swimming instruction course at Crystal lake park. The work last season was done by Mrs. Ethel C. Bauman, who donated her time instructing the swimmers and life savers. Twenty-nine senior and 30 junior life savers were qualified and more than 100 persons were given swimming instruction.

Another phase of Red Cross service inaugurated during the last year was the qualification of 25 men and women as first aid instructors. These persons were given a 10-day course at the Mar-

KILLS PROPOSAL TO CUT WHEAT ACREAGE

Federal Farm Board Head Says Nationwide Reduction Plan Is Impractical.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 15—A suggestion that the wheat surplus be controlled by a plan involving a nationwide acreage reduction agreement was vetoed today by Chairman Stone of the federal farm board.

Stone, in a letter to State Senator F. J. Wilmer, of Rosalia, Washington, said the problem's solution and higher prices lay in individual effort toward smaller crops. He held as impractical control measures which are contingent upon participation under contract of 75 per cent of the growers.

Wilmer, an official of the North Pacific Grain Growers Cooperative association, had advanced a proposal entailing financial aid and moral support of the board. It encompassed a nationwide campaign to obtain control of the next three crop surpluses and to limit acreage in 1932 and 1933 by a sign-up of at least 75 per cent of the farmers in a surplus control association with a three-year membership contract.

Wilmer's plan would bind a signer to hold on his farm or deliver to the surplus association without advance payment an amount set by directors based on a percentage of the entire crop. The delivered grain would be sold through the farmers national grain corporation in a manner not to affect domestic markets, and the surplus, after handling and transportation charges, returned to the growers. The contract also would limit 1932 and 1933 acreages to a percentage determined by the association's directors.

Pope Voices Message to Workers of World

More Equitable Distribution of Proceeds of Capital and Labor Urged in Observance of Leo XIII's Encyclical.

By The Associated Press

VATICAN CITY, May 15—Pope Pius XI today blessed and counselled the labor of the world in observance of Pope Leo XIII's encyclical, Rerum Novarium, dealing with workers' rights and duties.

His holiness celebrated mass in the morning at St. Peter's in the presence of nearly 20,000, half of whom were Catholic worker pilgrims. They shouted and cheered, "Long live Pius XI" as he was borne in the sedia gestatoria or papal throne on the shoulders of red costumed footmen up an aisle to the higher altar where he said mass.

Among those who attended mass this morning at St. Peter's and who will go to the papal ceremony this afternoon was John J. Raskob of New York.

Reconstruction Urged

Reconstruction of the entire economic system by "bringing it back to the requirements of social justice so as to ensure more equitable distribution of the united proceeds of capital and labor," was urged in the encyclical letter issued by the pope.

Only a resume of the text was made public. It was broadcast by the pontiff this afternoon and the full text will be given out in 10 days. His address was directed at 10,000 workers here celebrating the labor encyclical.

The letter is divided into three

STRIVE TO END STEEL STRIKE

Mansfield Corporation Officials Meet in Effort To Settle Wage Dispute.

MEN REJECT REDUCTIONS

Thousands of Applications for Jobs Received, President of Company Says.

By The Associated Press

MANSFIELD, O., May 15—An effort to settle wage differences between the Empire Steel corporation and 1,600 mployes who walked out the first of the week when a 15 per cent wage cut was placed in effect was being worked out today at a meeting of Empire officials and directors of the Pickands-Mathers corporation of Cleveland, which holds a large interest in Empire.

The meeting, originally planned for Cleveland, was transfered to the scene of the strike this morning. What plans will be formulated at the meeting are unknown, although Carl W. Henkel, president of the Empire today said, "the company will make every effort to meet the demand of the workers."

Employes State Terms

Besides rejecting any wage cut, the 1,600 employes last night presented peace terms which insist that wages return to the scale in effect before a 10 per cent cut, was made May 1 and that unskilled laborers receive not less than 40 cents an hour, an increase, spokesmen said of 8 cents. The strikers also demanded that wages be figured in a bi-monthly sliding scale based on the selling prices of steel, that day crews work no more than 10 hours and night crews no more than 12.

The strikers flatly refused to return to work on the company's offer to abandon a further five per cent reduction in wages announced Tuesday.

The plant remained idle today as pickets paced in front, but the furnaces were kept burning in case the strike comes to an early end. Henkel said he has thousands of applications from outside workers, but has not acted upon them pending the result of negotiations.

Spokesmen for the strikers also said they were dropping plans to join the Amalgamated association of iron, sheet and tin workers, and would form their own union.

BRIAND IN GENEVA

French Minister in Probable Last Efforts To Form Pan-Europe.

By The Associated Press

GENEVA, May 15—Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, came to Geneva today for what may be his last great efforts in behalf of a Pan-Europe, with, it was understood, a plan by which France is to help the nations of Europe past the economic slump.

The foreign minister, whose policies many regard as discredited at home in his defeat for the French presidency Wednesday, was expected to present each national delegation of the commission studying European federation here a copy of plans for a new project to secure their cooperation for common economic betterment.

Today's meeting is a prelude to a meeting next week of the league council.

GRAND JURORS LAUNCH PROBE

Former Senator Bender's Handling of Campaign Funds Investigated.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., May 15—Seventeen witnesses were summoned to appear before the grand jury today in an investigation of the conduct of George H. Bender, prominent Cleveland Republican, who led the campaign against the Marshall justice of the peace bill four years ago.

Assistant County Prosecutor David Ralph Hertz, who yesterday announced the investigation, said he had evidence tending to show that between $20,000 and $25,000 had been misappropriated from the Constitutional Law Enforcement league, which Bender headed in his fight against the Marshall bill. Bank records showed that only Bender had control of the funds, Hertz declared.

Senator Nils P. Johnson of Youngstown was listed as vice president of the league and Maxwell E. Wolgamot of Parma as secretary and treasurer, but they were not active in the league and had nothing to do with the funds, Hertz continued.

Bender, long a power in Republican circles here, served 10 years in the state senate and is now commissioner of the new municipal stadium nearing completion.

'I am not, and have not been, involved in any wrongdoing," he asserted. "For that reason I have nothing to say."

The Marshall bill under which justices of the peace could have operated liquor courts on a $250 monthly fee basis, was defeated in a referendum despite the support of the Anti-Saloon league.

N. Y. Orchestra Leader Defies Fascist Demand

By The Associated Press

BOLOGNA, Italy, May 15—Arturo Toscanini, conductor of the New York philharmonic orchestra, was struck in the face last night when he refused to play the Fascist national anthem at a concert, and today was on his way to Milan, having been ordered to leave Bologna by a Fascist official.

When the conductor arrived at the stage door of the theater a group of Fascists requested that he play the anthem because Count Ciano, undersecretary in the ministry of the interior and father-in-law of Premier Mussolini's daughter, was in the audience.

Toscanini refused, as he has done before, on the ground that the composition is not "good music." The delegation demanded that he reconsider, and when he would not one of them struck him and forced him to return to his hotel.

A larger group marched through the streets to the hotel where they staged a demonstration of protest and Commendatore Mario Ghenelli, federal Fascist secretary of the province, talked with Mrs. Toscanini, then ordered the conductor to leave town.

It is neither obligatory nor customary in Italy to play the Fascist anthem or the royal anthem at concert or opera unless one of the royal family

EXPERTS TO AID INQUIRY INTO HIGHWAY WORK

Nationally Known Engineers Hired for Probe in Ohio, Senator Says.

THOROUGH JOB PLANNED

Alleged Faulty Construction and Overpayment Claims on Program.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 15—State Senator David Lorbach, Democrat of Cincinnati, chairman of the special senate highway investigating committee, announced today that the committee will retain a corps of nationally prominent highway engineers to assist in looking into charges of faulty highway construction.

Dr. J. Gordon McKay of Cleveland, director of the Cleveland highway research bureau, already has been consulted, Senator Lorbach said. The senator said the committee would not only investigate alleged faulty construction but would look into claims of overpayments on state contracts.

Reports Contract Overpaid

The committee, Lorbach said, has received specific information that one highway contract in Clermont county required payment of $13,000 above the original contract price. He said the final payment was made last January.

Senator Lorbach claimed that the new highway, constructed with the additional funds, already is breaking up and needs repairs from the maintenance fund of the state.

The Cincinnati senator claimed the state had lost thousands of dollars of federal aid because the state highway department had failed to meet the federal government specifications.

Sees Inefficiency Evident

"To my mind, conditions such as this are the result of carelessness and inefficiency," Senator Lorbach said. In commenting on the Clermont county road. "If the roads were built properly in the first instance, it would not be necessary to spend money within a few months after the road has been accepted as satisfactory."

SAFECRACKERS TRY LUMBER OFFICE JOB

What is believed to have been an unsuccessful attempt to burglarize the safe in the office of the Slanser Lumber & Coal Co. at 160 North Greenwood street, was discovered by employes when the office was opened this morning.

Although showing evidence of the attempt to force it open, the safe door was closed and until it has been opened, it will be impossible to determine whether or not the safecrackers succeeded in their attempt.

The combination dial and the handle had been hammered from the door and the presence of a quantity of scrap led police to believe an attempt had been made to blow the door with explosives, although no explosive [illegible] was found.

DAVID BELASCO

STAGE WORLD IN MOURNING

FUNERAL ON SUNDAY

Sudden Demise Removes One of Most Noted Producers of World.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 15—The theatrical world was in mourning today for David Belasco, grand old man of the stage, creator of stars, wizard as director and producer.

In his seventy-seventh year, he died of heart disease yesterday after virtually a lifetime devoted to the stage. "I shall retire when I am carried feet first out of the theater," he said on his seventy-fifth birthday. He never did retire and there was a dramatic touch to his death. "I am fighting for my life," he said as his daughter Reina, Mrs. Morris Gest, went to his bedside a moment before the end.

True to the Belasco tradition, his latest play, "Tonight or Never," went on as usual last night.

Stricken Suddenly

Mr. Belasco was stricken but a few hours before his death. He had apparently recovered from a siege of pneumonia which had kept him abed several months last winter.

Sunday he went motoring. Tuesday night he felt ill, but refused to let his nurse summon a doctor. At 8 a. m. yesterday the doctor was called and remained with the stage master until the end at 4:15 p. m.

On the stage first as a child, Belasco had played 200 parts while still a young man. At his death he had produced some 400 plays, of which he had written 150.

He starred, among others: Frances Starr, Mary Pickford (he changed her name from Gladys

MADRID POLICE HEAD REMOVED FROM POST

Government Charges Laxity in Quelling Recent Outbreaks of Disorders.

By The Associated Press

MADRID, May 15—Carlos Borrero, chief of police of Madrid, was removed from office today by government order, charged with laxity in putting down disorders which culminated this week in the burning of 10 churches and church buildings here. Ricardo Herrais was named in his stead.

The minister of interior, Miguel Maura, placed in charge of suppression of the disorders, stated after a protracted cabinet meeting last night that the government was "highly pleased" with the resumption of order throughout Spain and that the cabinet did not consider it necessary to meet again to consider the situation until Monday.

Meeting in an unauthorized assembly last night led to arrest of 14 communists by police who said that they found a large quantity of arms and ammunition and many documents which indicated widespread activity by the organization.

FOUR WOMEN DROP FROM UPPER FLOOR IN PRISON ESCAPE

Flee from Marysville Reformatory in Stolen Auto After Reaching Ground Down Drain Pipe and Rope of Bed Clothing.

CENTRAL OHIO OFFICERS JOIN SEARCH

By The Associated Press

MARYSVILLE, O., May 15—Four inmates of the Ohio reformatory for women, near here, made their escape early this morning from the second story.

Those escaping were Mrs. Marie Flesh, 23, admitted to the institution Feb. 6, 1930, from Dayton, on a forgery charge to serve one to 20 years; Miss Anna Bagdon, 20, of Lakewood, serving a similar sentence on a forgery charge from Cleveland; Miss Jessie Parsons, 20, of Crooksville, admitted March 21, 1928, as an incorrigible juvenile to serve until 21 years of age, and Mrs. Zelma Theodore, 19, of Middletown, also an incorigible admitted Feb. 1, 1929 from the Girls' Industrial school.

Had Previous Experience

Miss Parsons and Mrs. Theodore had made previous escapes from the reformatory.

The escape, Mrs. Louise Mittendorf, superintendent of the institution, said, had been planned for several weeks.

The four escaped while the night watch was being changed. They had a half hour start before their absence was discovered.

Authorities throughout central Ohio, and reformatory guards took up the pursuit. After searching the region all morning, the hunters reported they had found no trace of the women, who are believed to have made their getaway in an automobile stolen here.

Use Stolen Machine

They were believed to have stolen clothing from the sewing room for they discarded their regulation uniforms before fleeing.

During the absence of a guard, who was making the rounds, the Flesch and Bagdon women broke the locks on windows, gained a porch roof, and slid 20 feet down a rope of sheets and blankets. The other girls were aided in gaining the group by a drain pipe.

When the alarm was sounded, all available guards were summoned, and two automobiles, carrying them, rushed immediately for the highways leading to Columbus, Sheriffs and city authorities in central Ohio, notified of the escaped, detailed officers to search for the prisoners.

APPROVES ENDING OF COMPULSORY DRILL

Ohio State Faculty Sanctions Optional Military Training for Students.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 15—The faculty at Ohio State university was on record today as sanctioning abandonment of compulsory military training at the institution. This attitude was announced after the monthly meeting yesterday when the members voted, 83 to 79, to recommend that the training be made optional instead of mandatory as at present.

The recommendation now goes to the trustees who meet next Wednesday. The faculty vote was on a petition of the optional drill league and was an outgrowth of the recent anti-compulsory training demonstration by students. Bearing about 700 names, the petition was presented by Professor Roderick Peattie, chairman of the council on student affairs.

During the campus demonstration, students were urged to strike against compulsory training but this plan later was abandoned. Members of the optional drill league drew up the petition at a protest meeting Tuesday.

One Wise Man

(Will Rogers Special)

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., May 15—Today ought to be a day of consolation to folks that have made bad investments.

Here George F. Baker who was supposed to have not less then a half billion, winds up with one-eighth of that. And he was supposed to be the smartest financial man we had. The thing busted right in his face, so what chance did anybody else have.

I tell you, and I believe it as strong as I ever believed anything in my life, Calvin Coolidge was the only man in America that saw this whole thing coming, and got from under. He just says to himself:

"Folks have bought everything in the world, for a dollar down, under me, now let 'em pay for 'em under Herbert. I will see you again when things pick up, so long."

Name me another man in America that saw it coming unless it was Al Capone. I hate to class a fine, upstanding citizen like Mr. Coolidge with Capone, but facts is facts, and Cal and Al are the only two out of 120 millions.

Yours,

Will Rogers

AIRPLANES SWARM TO DAYTON TODAY

All of Army Craft Entered in Maneuver Expected by Noon.

By The Associated Press

FAIRFIELD, DAYTON, O., May 15—Hundreds of army airplanes hopped off from fields within a radius of 300 miles of this army air corps center early today for concentration for the annual army maneuvers.

The more than 670 ships reached scattered stations throughout the middle west last night and took off today at designated times in order that there would be no confusion in their arriving at Wright field and Fairfield.

Upwards of 60 planes arrived here yesterday and the remainder were scheduled to ground not later than noon.

Bad weather east of the Appalachian mountains held up some ships, but Brigadier General Benjamin Foulois, in charge of the maneuvers, said he would be satisfied if all arrived by noon Saturday.

Despite the fact that 672 planes have been on the move from the four corners of the country for the last several days, reports of accidents have been few. Four ships were down in various parts of the country yesterday. One nosed over at South Euclid, near Cleveland, and broke a propeller.

A transport plane was down near Waco, Tex., with a broken oil line; another came down with a connecting rod burned out at Argyle, Tex., and a fourth landed at Scott Field, Ill.

High School Senior Girls Altrusa Club Dinner Guests

ONE of the most interesting and worthwhile social affairs this spring was the vocational guidance friendship dinner given by the Marion Altrusa club last evening at First Reformed church for the girls who will graduate from Harding High school this year. One hundred and one girls were present with the members of the club and guests.

Mrs. Esther Moore, dean of women at Ohio Wesleyan university, was guest speaker. Her talk was informal, yet carried home points that will be of practical value to the girls in planning their future careers.

Advises Careful Study

Her advice to the girls was for them to analyze themselves as to what they are physically and mentally capable of making of their future lives, to consider their family and environments, whether or not the family can afford a college career for a daughter, to make themselves familiar with the occupations open to women and all the details concerning the profession or business they wish to enter, and finally, to frankly face the question, "Do we want to marry?"

"There is no profession that needs the training that motherhood does today," she said. She advised the girls that if there was any question in their minds as to a career or marriage, the home should come first.

The dinner was the first of its kind attempted in Marion. Vocational guidance meetings have been held for the high school senior boys, but last evening's meeting was the first devoted to girls and their problems in choosing their life's work after graduation.

Prayer by Mrs. Grace Parlette Sifritt was offered before the party was seated for dinner. Two tall wicker baskets of white and purple lilacs stood at either end of the president's table, and bowls of lilacs and tulips were set at intervals the length of the three long tables centered with ribbon strips of blue and silver, Altrusa colors.

Miss Edith Eibling, president, extended a welcome to the girls and Marian Isaly, vice president, of the senior class, gave a response on behalf of her schoolmates. Miss Eibling gave a short history of Altrusa since its founding as a national organization in 1917 in Tennessee. She gave the girls three things to remember about Altrusa, its feeling of friendship for them, its best wishes for their success and its helpfulness to them at any time they may need advice and guidance.

Introduces Guests

The guests, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Bowman, K. H. Marshall and Miss Hallie Houck were introduced, and Mr. Marshall in a few words to the girls, expressed the theme of the meeting.

Interesting statistics given in Mrs. Moore's work concerned percentages. Only 10 per cent of the young people in the United S... are graduating from high s... and of this group only seven... cent go to college. Of this ... group, only two per cent gra... from college.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Margie Wales at the Ticer Place sends Word from Miss Halkett.

The thing was that in Sam Ticer's face and eyes, as his wife announced that she herself was going to the farmhouse to tell my friend the Chinese skulking in the barn which warned me that that form of domestic unrest known as a "family row" was imminent. Nor could I find in my heart to blame the nominal head of the house although my sympathies were with his wife. But my neighbor, like most other undisturbed and good-tempered males, will outdo the most accomplished bragger when she gets sufficiently irritated, and her husband's stupidity in the matter of the rice paper with the Chinese inscription which he had found upon the cushion of my automobile had given her the opportunity to vent her righteous but ill-timed indignation upon his luckless head. No man with spirit could have helped resenting her tirade, and I knew that Mrs. Ticer's ordinarily easy-going husband could show a pretty temper of his own when he chose to unleash it.

"I've had enough of this foolishness," he said, his face crimsoning. "I'll let you know, once for all, who's—"

Sam Is Agreeable

"Oh, Mr. Ticer!" I tried to let no consciousness of his choler appear in my face or voice. "I ought to tell you why I asked Mrs. Ticer if she couldn't stay here while she went over to the farmhouse. I have to stay here for a little while—I'll tell you why presently—and I'm so nervous—I'd feel safer with you around. I do hope you'll let her go."

I devoutly hoped the recording angel had his celestial fountain pen engaged in some other corner of the universe than the Ticer farmhouse. For I would back Mrs. Ticer's ability to repel marauders against that of her husband any day of the year. With a rolling pin, a fire poker and a teakettle of boiling water, I think she could repel a siege.

An appeased grin touched the corners of Sam Ticer's lips.

"Why I'd jest as soon stay here," he said, and I guessed that he was secretly glad of the way out which I had afforded him. "And don't you worry none, Mis' Graham. Nobody nor nothin'll bother you while I'm here."

"Oh! I know that," I assented promptly. "I couldn't worry with you around. I'm sorry I have to stay here. I could save Mrs. Ticer the trip to the farmhouse. But I didn't know how long you would have to be with the car and I couldn't get my telephone connection so Mrs. Ticer kindly permitted me to wait here for it."

A Note to Lillian

"I'd like to see you trying to do anything else," Mrs. Ticer reiterated her hospitable indignation of a few minutes before. "Now Ticer, Mis' Graham wants to write a note—"

"An' I suppose you want me to get out," he grinned, his good humor evidently restored. "All right. I'll go out and finish my chores. Say. You lock up when you go, all but the back door and have Mis' Graham lock that after you. I'll be right outside in the garden, them onions want weedin', and she can call me out of the window if she needs me."

"I'll tend to all that," his wife said impatiently, and heaved a sigh from her toes when her husband finally made his leisurely way out of the house."

"That man would make a saint tear his shirt," she said, "he takes so much time gettin' from one place to another. Now you finish your note while I make your coffee. Then I'll go over to your house, and you can drink your coffee at your leisure while you're waiting for your 'phone call."

She bustled out into the kitchen, and resolutely turning my thoughts away from the rice paper with the Chinese inscription which I had thrust into my bag, I took out my pen again and finished my brief note to Lillian.

"Dear Lillian," it ran, "Mrs. Ticer will give you this so that you, but no one else will know where I am. I had a blowout just past the Ticer house, so I went back and telephoned from there. But Miss Halkett has not yet come in, so I have left a message and am waiting here for the call. Mr. Ticer is weeding outside the windows, so I can call him if I need anything. Mrs. Ticer has a message for Father, but you are not to worry. Everything is all right. Better destroy this. Will come home, the minute I get my call.

"Affectionately, Madge."

Mrs. Ticer Starts Her Errand

I folded the note and put it in the envelope, wrote Lillian's name upon it and then lay back with my eyes closed, utterly spent. The next thing I knew Mrs. Ticer was saying, "Mis' Graham! Mis' Graham!" in a frightened voice, and I opened my eyes to see her anxious face bending over me.

"You was so white, you scared me," she said "Are you all right?

"Perfectly," I told her with an effort. "I just dropped off to sleep, I fancy. "Oh, what a wonderful odor your coffee has."

She had set down a tray on the table near me with coffee, cream, sugar, butter, doughnuts and some of her locally famous "raised biscuits."

"Well, if you're hungry, I won't worry any longer," she said, relieved, and after locking up, departed. But when I had locked the door after her, I did not pour my coffee immediately. Instead I took out the rice paper and scanned it feverishly.

Mad Pursuit

BY JESSIE DOUGLAS FOX

(Copyright, 1931, Jessie Douglas Fox)

CHAPTER 22

Nora Intervenes

THE little red brick house began to take on a Bohemian air. There were innumerable canvases stacked against the walls which, however, no one was allowed to look at. There were canvases being stretched, paint brushes in jars.

At midnight Julian would tell the family he was starving and they would troop down the stairs to cook impromptu meals which he would enliven with stories of adventure.

He entertained them with such vivid plans for their future that Nora was disturbed. Although he assured her he would not ask Jon for money, she knew his promise meant less than nothing.

She swallowed her pride toward the end of the week and telephoned Jon to ask him to meet her at the office after 5.

It was a warm sunny afternoon and the streets were crowded as she came down the wooden stairs. Jon was waiting for her. Her heart rose as she saw how splendid he looked in his gray flannels.

"I had to see you," she began directly. "I don't know how to tell you—but if my father should ever ask you for money," she drew a deep breath, "you must not lend it to him."

They were the most painful words she had ever uttered.

"But if I should want to lend it to him?"

"You've seen him again?"

She stood still and, lifting her spirited face, defied him with all her pride.

"Yes, why not? I like him enormously," he smilingly answered.

"Don't ask why. Only I beg you not to lend him money!"

"I've given him my word I would. Besides you don't know your father's plan. He wants to exhibit his pictures."

She burned with shame. She must tell him that her father's pictures would only hold him up to ridicule. He would only be laughed at.

"Jon, you mustn't do this!" she cried with a dreadful earnestness.

"Why?"

"I know what my father has done."

"But, Nora, his pride has been hurt. He wants to show us all that his work is esteemed by the critics. The show will do this for him."

"Isn't there anything I can say to make you stop before it's too late?" She lifted stormy blue eyes dazzling with tears.

"I am doing this for you," he said stubbornly.

"You have never done anything for me, not from the first day when you took me to the Thayer house and told Damon I was a tramp...." her eyes blazed black as she poured out the accumulated feeling of all these weeks. "There was nothing she spared him, accusing him of pride and treachery.

"If you lend him money I never want to see you again. Never!"

A Dove street trolley was coming along and she darted out and swung up on the front seat beside the brakeman. The conductor had to ask her twice before she knew that he was demanding her fare. She was still trembling violently. Jon would not spare her father in his headstrong willfulness. For her father would be held up to ridicule, and that was the one thing he could not face.

The car had long since passed Dove street. She was startled to find she had reached the end of the line. She got off and began to walk rapidly towards the woods, trying to run away from the thought that she had showed Jon just how she felt toward him. But he followed her. He would always follow her like this, through the empty days and dreams, her work, her laughter.

How still it was here in the little wood. She sank down beside a tiny white flower, soothed by the deep peace of the woods.

She looked up startled as she heard footsteps. No one must see her. She shrank back.

It was Jon. He stood before her, looking down at her.

"I was on the same car, but I lost you at the edge of the woods."

"Have you changed your mind?"

"No."

It did not matter now what Jon thought of her. She must save him from this hopeless plan of her father's. She must save her father his inevitable humiliation. There was only one way. She stood up.

"Do you know why I married Nicholas?"

Jon waited, his eyes bearing down on her white face.

"I did not love him. I married him so that he would bring me home."

"I knew from the first you did not love him. Why did you come home, Nora?"

She drew a deep breath. She was very white.

"Don't you know? Don't you know that too?"

He stood looking at her.

She said, "You were here."

There was a dreadful stillness in the wood. She would never look at him again. The pity she would find in his eyes would scorch her. Searching his face, at length, she saw the mockery and insolence were gone. It was the face of the boy she had fallen in love with when she was 15.

Now he was looking at her in a way that dazzled her. Why was she standing there frozen into stone? Why was he coming nearer?

"Nora—"

She could no longer look at him. She clung to the tree.

"Nora, haven't you known all the time . . . I love you?"

All the need of her nature cried out to him. The need for one person who would give her that refuge that was for her alone, that security against the very impermanence of life.

"I love you so. I love you so," she said as he held her close; "now you know it all."

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

TODAY was Friday, and when I had got my short britches on after letting Jubilee down by his rope and had done my work in the barn I turned my cows loose before I took the milk in to strain it, and they thought they were putting something over on me, they stayed in the barn till I got in the kitchen and the bunch was playing with the acting pole and then the old cow horned the door open and stuck her head out and looked around, and then they both came busting out and they shook their heads and kicked up their heels, and then they went out through the gate with their tails in the air and the dogs after them. A cow isn't very bright.

When I had fed my face we all went over to the vacant lot, and as soon as the cows saw us coming they put up their tails and started for the pasture, and Nibs was just coming out of Old Man Scanlun's yard riding on his cow like he said he would, and when his cow saw our cows way ahead of it and still going it made up its mind that it would catch up with them, and away it went, and Nibs certainly looked scairt when he went past us, and then the dogs got in behind his cow, and when it turned the corner from the vacant lot to the road he couldn't stick on her any longer, and when she raised up her hind end in a big kick she ran out from under him whilst he was in the air and he hit the side of the ditch all spraddled out, and when he got up he was mad at all of us and blamed us for it.

The teacher told us yesterday that April Blossom was going to speak another piece today, and Banty was ready for her. When she got up on the platform and made her bow and said, "The Last Hen," we all sot still and she started off, "The summer sun was setting in a village by the sea," and the teacher turned and looked out of the window, and Banty pulled a paper out from under his coat and he had printed on it in large letters, "Go, your liver loves'" Which was a mistake April made when she spoke Curfew, and Banty held it up toardst her, and she rolled her eyes around and saw it and went flat all at once. She couldn't remember what she wanted to say, and she sputtered a couple of times and ran out of gas, and the teacher looked around right quick and told Banty to bring it to her, and then she made him tell April he was sorry, and the teacher told April she could go back to her room. But I bet she cried when she got out in the hall. That was a dirty trick.

We threw Banty in the creek when we got to the pasture, but the rest of us didn't go in because his lips got blue and we knowed it was too cold. I wish he hadn't done it. April never done anything to him.

Test Legality of Bonds Special Improvements

ase Originating in Allen County Now Before State Supreme Court Has Application in Marion County, Officials Here Say.

Legality of bonds issued under the Ohio law authorizing county commissioners to create special sewer and water districts outside municipalities was before the state supreme court yesterday for a second time, according to Associated Press dispatches from Columbus.

Although none of the bonds in question were issued in Marion county, the legal test to which this section of the law has been put has had its effect in this county in the financing of ditch work, officials revealed today.

To Consider Question

The matter was taken under advisement by the court yesterday after a hearing in which the state asked reversal of a previous opinion holding the special sewer and water district law unconstitutional.

When ditch or waterway special assessment bonds are issued by the county, the county automatically becomes a guarantor of the taxpayers and is obliged to meet any deficiency which might arise from taxpayers failing to meet their assessments, officials say. Since the waterways and ditches are improvements which benefit only one section of the county in most cases, it has been held unfair for the entire tax duplicate to make up any deficiency.

Many officials are of the opinion that none of the present litigation over his question would ever have been started had county prosecutors and county treasurers forced the collection of special assessment taxes, in a manner made possible by the machinery of the law, local officials say. Since forced collection of delinquent taxes is politically unpopular throughout the state, the question of the right of the county to make up deficiencies resulting from delinquencies on improvements benefiting only a small portion of the county has become a problem for the courts to decide.

In Marion county, officials have found it impossible to issue bonds for ditch improvements while the case is being tried, as bondbuyers refuse to purchase such bonds. The problem probably will be met locally by financing ditch improvements from money in a special ditch fund created from the general fund. This ditch fund is reimbursed by special assessments against the property owners benefited, but under this system the property owners are only given a year to pay the special assessments instead of the usual five or ten years allowed for the payment of special assessments on bonds.

Starts in Allen County

The case now at issue originated in Allen county where J. Charles Bowman sued to compel the commissioners to levy a general tax on all property in the county to pay the interest and principal on $1,000,000 in bonds issued for two special sewer districts just outside the city of Lima. The suit resulted from defaults in the payments.

In its earlier decision, the supreme court held that the county was justified in refusing to make the levy because the law was invalid in that general taxes could not be assessed on bonds issued for improvements benefitting only a few residents. Asking reversal of this decision, Attorney General Gilbert Bettman said it was the province of the county commissioners to determine if there was general benefit and not the courts. He argued further that it was unnecessary any great benefit accrue to other residents when the bonds were issued for improvements to "promote the health and welfare of the county as provided under the law."

The remedy, if the commissioners have exceeded their authority, Bettman said, was up to the voters who may punish the officials by refusing them reelection. Supporting the commissioners' action, Ernest M. Bodkin, Allen county prosecutor, and several other Lima attorneys, asked that the original decision be allowed to stand.

ELECTRIC SHOCK INJURES WOMAN

Mrs. Frank Smith of 620 Oak street today is recovering from an electric shock suffered Wednesday when she took hold of an electric light socket at the Palace theatre But for the presence of mind of her husband, employes of the theater said today, she would have been severely burned.

Both Mr and Mrs. Smith are employed at the theater and Wednesday while Mrs. Smith was running an electric sweeper over the carpet on the balcony floor, she reached up to turn on light. As her fingers came in contact with the socket of the lamp, her body formed a circuit between the metal handle of the sweeper and the light socket

She was unable to take her hands from either the socket or sweeper. Her husband pulled her hand loose from the socket. She was unconscious for a few minutes She was later removed to her home

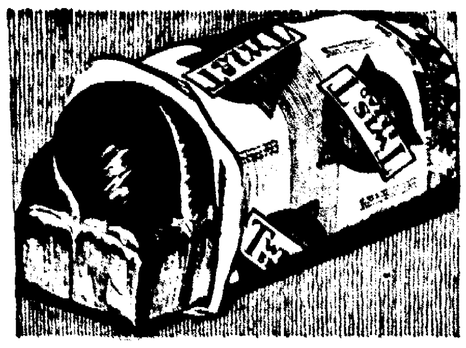
Try a loaf of New Cheese Bread—Toast it. It's delicious. A Union Bakery Product—Home of the New Twist Bread.

HOME OWNED



MAKE A GAME OF IT—AND WIN SOME MONEY

We want your help in selecting a good selling slogan for NEW TWIST BREAD, our new loaf.

Make a game of it, like "Ask Me Another" or "Cross Word Puzzles." Get all the folks together after dinner and let everybody try their hand at writing a bread slogan. Or go it alone. See what kind of a writer or advertising man you would make.

We suggest that you get a loaf of NEW TWIST BREAD at your grocer's, and find out for yourself how wonderfully good it is. Test it in every possible way—slice it, taste it, toast it, make some sandwiches. You'll get ideas for your slogans easily then, because you'll know that our new loaf is perfect in every way.

Make your slogans short, snappy and easy to remember. And don't forget—they must have selling appeal.

Here are the Cash Prizes!

1st Prize - - - $25.00

3,000 PUPILS READY FOR HEALTH PARADE

School Nutrition Event To Be Held Saturday If Weather Permits.

Three thousand school children, to say nothing of a large number of teachers and the school nutritionist, Miss Esther Tress, are casting worried looks toward the sky today and wondering what the weatherman has in store for them for Saturday, the day scheduled for the postponed health parade.

With the king and queen selected, the children of the various schools equipped with their colored paper caps, and the band all ready to go, the parade, scheduled for last Saturdayy was postponed because of rain.

The school bells will ring Saturday at 11 a. m. if the parade is to be held, Miss Tress said.

Music for the parade will be furnished by the Eagles' band and the children will march to Garfield park where, following the crowning of the king and queen and the presenting of the trophy to the St. Mary's parochial school, winners of the award for the most perfect dental score, a short program will be given.

The parade is an annual affair and is made up of children of the first six grades in all of the city schools. Dorothy Ann Taylor, the 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Taylor of East Walnut street and Donald Gorenflo, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gorenflo of East Mark street, have been selected as king and queen.

Women Community Fund Workers Plan for Drive

Mrs. H. K. Mouser, Colonel of Division To Work in Residential Section, Meets with Majors and Team Captains at Marion Club.

Mrs. H. K. Mouser, colonel of the women's territorial division of the Community Fund drive, which will canvass the residential districts of the city during the week of May 25, met her majors and their team captains at the Marion club this morning to discuss further organization of the division and to lay plans for the canvass.

Team Captains Named

All of the team captains had been named this morning. Miss Mary Kelly, major, has named as her captains Mrs. Frank Knapp, Mrs. Wilbur H. Symes, Mrs. G. E. Turner, Mrs. J. A. Dodd and Mrs. L. Don Jones. Captains of Mrs. James Smith, major, are Mrs. O. G. Stephenson, Mrs. Hazel Sonnanstine, Mrs. Maude Dennis and Mrs. William Hickman.

Captaines chosen by Mrs. Carl W. Schell, major, are Mrs. W. B. Tway, Mrs. J. B. Brady, Mrs. Eugene Moore, Mrs. Francis A. Boyer and Mrs. J. A. Lott. Mrs. Walter Hane, major, today had named as her captains Mrs. D. W. Disbennett, Mrs. George Kleinmaier, Mrs. C. S. Jameson, Mrs. B. J. Cehrs and Mrs. Grover Snyder.

A. W. Newby, head of the Huber Manufacturing Co., and colonel of the employes division, met 40 leaders from Marion factories and large retail concerns in a preliminary planning conference to enable employes to make their subscriptions with a minimum of trouble to themselves and the fund workers.

Plan Shop Drive

Plans as outlined by Mr. Newby involve an internal setup in each department with a plant captain, with no other responsibility except the arrangement for canvassing the men in his department, in charge.

"Last year, this division asked for one day's wages from each man," Mr. Newby said. "This year," he continued, "we are asking those having steady employment to consider their fortunate situation with those who are not working, and to see if they can, in a measure, make up for the subscriptions which ordinarily would have been collected from those who are not employed at the present.

"Of course we are not asking for cash subscriptions. Due to the fact that payments can be spread over a number of weeks, sizeable subscriptions can be made without a hardship on anyone."

The industrial division expects to begin its work next Wednesday, Mr. Newby said.

TO PLACE MARKER AT PARK ENTRANCE

District D. A. R. Officers Select Site; Guests at Banquet.

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, May 15 — The marker commemorating the bi-centennial of the birth of George Washington which was awarded the local Colonel William Crawford Chapter of D. A. R., will be placed in the Harrison Smith park here.

The site for the marker was selected yesterday by Miss Anna Whitaker of Toledo, director of the northwest district of Ohio D. A. R., and her committee, who were guests of the local chapter.

The local chapter was awarded one of the five markers given by the Ohio D. A. R. because of the great friendship that existed between George Washington and Colonel William Crawford, who was burned at the stake by the Indians in this county June 11, 1782. Crawford first became acquainted with Washington when he was a surveyor in the Shenandoah Valley. He was also with Washington at Valley Forge.

According to present plans the marker will be placed at the west side of the driving entrance to the park. The base will be a huge octagonal stone from the old courthouse. On top of this will be placed two mill stones which were obtained from the old mill that formerly stood at Marseilles. These stones are more than 100 years old. The bronze marker is to be placed on the top of these. The marker will be dedicated June 11, 1932, which will be a state event and celebration.

Those attending from Toledo were Mrs. Frank E. Walters, regent of Fort Sandusky chapter; Mrs. Homer Heath, state chairman of educational work; Mrs. James Burnap, Mrs. Walter Bissell, Mrs. R. H. Lane, Mrs. R. D. Murray, Miss Edith Whitaker and Mrs. E. W. Eastelle, Mrs. G. F. Evans.

The visitors were banqueted at the Trinity Reformed church by members of the local chapter and shown various points of historical interest in the county.

He told parents to take an interest in what their children are studying and reading and how they spend their time. Cooperation with the schools to insure the best possible education was urged. He said when parents invest dollars and cents in education quality should be the reward.

Trained for Leadership

It is not the aim of educators to train students for the future, he said, but for leadership which measures up to quality.

Beside his daughter, Mr. Belasco leaves three brothers.

Funeral Sunday

He will be buried in Linden Hills, N J, cemetery, by the side of his wife, Cecelia Loverish, whom he married in San Francisco. Services will be conducted in Central synagogue, with Rabbi Jonah B. Wise officiating.

Pall bearers will be Mayor Walker, Daniel Frohman, George M. Cohan, Al Jolson, Frank Gillmore, Edward Charles Carpenter, A. O. Brown, Mitchel L. Erlanger and Edward D. Coblentz.

Of ancient Portuguese extraction, Mr Belasco was born at San Francisco, July 25, 1854. In his later life there was a question as to the year of his birth, nearly all biographical works giving the year 1859. It wasn't that Belasco was sensitive about his age—he never paid attention to it—but was rather proud of his ability to continue at the pace he followed in his work for one of his years.

On each recurring anniversary of his birth, he would jocularly announce upon entering his office "Today I am 21," an indication of how old he felt. A few weeks before that anniversary in 1929, some old friends insisted that he clear up the matter and Belasco asked his sister. She said he would be 75 on July 25 of that year.

The early ancestors of Mr. Belasco were forced to flee to England before the Moors. His father was among those who later went to Vancouver, B. C, where he accumulated some wealth and was elected mayor. Later, when he met with reverses, he moved his family to San Francisco about the time of the California gold rush and that city became the birthplace of David.

The latter was educated at Lincoln college, California, and at the time he was graduated married Cecelia Loverish. Mrs Belasco died several years ago. Their daughter, Reina Victoria, was married to Morris Gest, the theatrical producer, in 1911.

parts. In the first the pontiff enumerates the benefits which have resulted from Pope Leo's encyclical.

These, the letter says, consist in giving form and substance to the development of sociology and economics according to the Catholic principle; promoting more solid organization of working men in religious, moral and social fields, and compelling the politically supreme liberalism of the time to yield little by little to a new social policy more favorable to justice.

Defends Right To Organize

Pope Leo's encyclical, the letter says, "also is resolute in asserting the right possessed even by working men to form associations for mutual aid and for the legitimate defense of their common interests."

In the second part Pope Pius discusses the changes which have taken place since Pope Leo wrote, 40 years ago. He vindicates the solemn duty of the church and the pope to intervene in social problems when they fall under the moral and evangelical law. He reaffirms the Catholic doctrines concerning the rights of private property.

THE RT RLV WILSON R STEARLY, bishop of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Newark, N J, is in favor of granting birth control clinics, and his clergy are with him.

Prosperous women have complete birth control information. Their doctors provide it, although the prosperous women could afford as many children as might come.

Poor women already worried with too many children, are deprived of birth control knowledge because they haven't a prosperous physician such as the prosperous women have to give them the information.

It is fortunate for the world, however, that poor mothers have many children, for the children of the poor, nine times out of ten do the world's most important work. But that has nothing to do with the question of justice.

THREATEN STRIKES

Green Warns Labor Will Resist Attempts at Wage Cutting.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 15—Strikes to prevent wage cuts if other means prove unsatisfactory have the approval of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

This statement last night followed an appeal by the federation's executive council that organized and unorganized labor resist "to the fullest extent" any tendency toward less pay or a lower living standard.

The council said it had found a move among some bankers and employers to reduce wages, and Green reiterated his belief that any action in that direction would be a direct breach of an agreement industrial leaders reached with President Hoover in 1929.

"We feel labor would be fully justified in resisting attempts to reduce wages even to the extent of striking," Green said.

on Steam Shovel Co to qualify them to give first aid in the Marion factory workers and groups.

As both the life saving station and first aid work have their value in the prevention of drownings accidents, and fatalities, their merit is intangible and cannot be measured. Miss Margaret Lowe, chapter secretary points out.

Nurses Kept Busy

Another valuable service of the chapter is given by Red Cross nurses in their work in disease prevention in conjunction with the city and county health office. Nurses cared for 640 new cases in the last year including 133 maternity patients. Sixty-five mothers were given pre-natal and post-natal care. Other cases include 19 tuberculosis patients, 29 communicable disease patients, 24 crippled children, and 274 cases of various diseases.

The nurses made a total of 8,144 visits to homes, gave special attention to 1,243 children referred to them for defects in health and did much disease prevention work in the schools.

Red Cross nurses include Miss Florence Spaulding supervising nurse, and Mrs Leta Maugan. Through an arrangement with Dr N Slfritt, city-county health commissioner their work supplements that of Miss Mabel Hastings, city health nurse, avoiding duplication and promoting a more efficient service. Red Cross nursing is not limited to charity work but also extends into paid nursing service in homes where nurses are desired for short periods by persons who can afford to pay.

Has Loan Service

The nursing service maintains a loan closet from which air cushions, pillows, bed linen, nightgowns and other sick room supplies are loaned during sickness.

During the fiscal year of the chapter in 1930-31 it was allowed $9,170. This year it is asking for $8,285.

Although maintained on a separate account of the Community Fund, the nutrition work is actually a part of the Red Cross chapter service. Miss Esther Tress, in charge of the work in public schools, is a trained Red Cross nutritionist.

The work of the nutritionist in the schools is primarily educational. Children in the first six grades are taught graded subject matter in nutrition and health. Approximately 4,600 children in the first six grades of school are taught semi-monthly.

Since Miss Tress began nutrition work here two years ago, 1,200 children have had their teeth inspected and passed on by a dentist and the percentage of children 10 pounds or more underweight has decreased from 33 per cent to 18 per cent. The nutritionist teaches balance in diet, the importance of milk, fruits and vegetables in the diet, and the practice of health habits.

During the last year, the nutrition work was financed on a budget of $2,250. This year, the nutrition item in the nutrition budget was reduced to $1,925.

Ed Ronkin, Maryland basketball star, counted 11 goals in four games for the old line lacrosse team.

Sports Editor, The Star

THE Marion Steam Shovel company owes a vote of thanks to a small chunk of dirt somewhere in the outfield of the Steam Shovel baseball diamond. This one chunk of dirt was enough to enable them to break a scoreless tie with the Erie Rounhouse nine, 1930 city champions, and defeat the railroaders 3 to 0 in a fast game.

The Railroaders and Shovel teams battled four innings without a score for either team and it looked like the same kind of ball might go on for several more innings. With two men on base and two men out Shorty Norris came to bat. He promptly smacked one into center field in the general direction of Fido Robbins. The hit might have scored one man and it might have scored none had it not hit a small mound of dirt just before reaching Fido. Hitting the small obstruction the ball took a crazy hop past Fido and went for a home run. That was the end of the ball game as far as scoring was concerned. The Roundhouse couldn't get to Lashey to make up the three run margin and the Shovel never threatened seriously to score any more runs.

Fairfield Shut Out.

The Fairfield Engineering company was playing on even terms with the Silk Mills in their game at President's Field until Ed. Fisher, Fairfield manager, saw fit to switch hurlers in the fifth inning.

Dick Walker, the incoming Fairfield hurler failed to keep control of the situation and the Silk Mills promptly added a quartet of runs to the two gathered off Markley, the former Fairfield pitcher, to put the game on ice. Walker didn't gain much effectiveness until late in the game. A pair of walks and several solid hits accounted for his downfall.

COMBINATION SHOW CARD IS ANNOUNCED FOR MONDAY NIGHT

Wrestling and Boxing To Vie for Honors on Steam Shovel Program.

The complete program for next Monday night's combined wrestling and boxing program at the Steam Shovel gym has been announced today by promoters.

The feature attraction will be the boxing match in which Ray Carpenter and Dug Marcelle will attempt to settle their differences for a purse of $250.

This bout developed out of a wrestling match last Monday night in which Carpenter lost and almost started a riot. An exchange of words resulted in the boys deciding to fight it out. They are scheduled to go 10 rounds.

The semi-final will be a wrestling match between Frank Higgins of Nashville, Tenn., and Dick Leaver of Chattanooga, Tenn. These two heavyweights are slated for a one-hour match with two falls to win.

A six-round fight will be offered as the second preliminary. Marion's Johnny Gerry has been signed to box Phil O'Dowd of Columbus.

Completing the bill will be preliminary match between Ray Hamilton of Marion and Carl Beihtler of Marysville. They will wrestle.

STATE BEATS PURDUE

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 15—Ohio State chalked up a Big Ten baseball victory by nosing out Purdue, 5 to 4, here yesterday. The Boilermakers were held to six hits by Bill Kermode, State hurler. Weisheimer's triple scoring Condon in the eighth accounted for the Buckeyes' winning tally.

ALL-EASTERN BATTLE LOOMS PROBABLE IN KENTUCKY CLASSIC

With Fair Weather Forecast Race May Be Fastest in Years.

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 15—They like their horse races down here in the blue grass, under any conditions, so even the old line of Kentucky turfmen today accepted the prospect that, barring an upset, it will be an all-eastern battle for three-year-old honors in the fifty-seventh running of the classic derby.

East or west, good times or bad, tomorrow's blue ribbon event of the American turf figured to be just that—a horse race and perhaps as excitingly close as any Kentucky derby since the war.

Two years ago Clyde Van Duesen, the little mud horse, outrushed the pride of the blue grass, Blue Larkspur, and won. Last year in another downpour, Gallant Fox beat the best the west had to offer. Tomorrow, not one but two crack eastern thoroughbreds, Mrs Payne Whitney's Twenty Grand and Albert C. Bostwick's Mate, are favored to renew their racing feud in a fight for the winner's wreath of roses and close to $60,000 in prize money.

Fair Weather Likely

They probably will have fair weather for this turf duel, whether or not it fulfills the expectations of a crowd of perhaps 50,000 spectators, including Charles Curtis, the vice president of the United States and guest of honor.

C. V. (Sonny) Whitney's one-time derby favorite, Equipoise, may stage a come-back after several disappointments. Somehow the west may realize its fondest hopes and crash through with such a contender as Thomas E. Mueller's Pittsburgher. The "big train," Griffin Watkins' Insco or Charles T. Fisher's Sweep All.

There would be a horse race if there weren't these hopes and fears and arguments, but the big debate today centered on the changes that Twenty Grand will have the stuff to turn the tables on Mate, the Preakness victor, over the longer route of one mile and a quarter—at equal weights, 126 pounds, and with an even break in the racing luck.

Twenty Grand Looks Good

Twenty Grand, the handsome bay aristocrat with the slangy name, looked like a million to his backers yesterday in clicking off an impressive final trial in 1:42 2-5 for the mile and 1:57, eased up, for the mile and an eighth. It showed the colt to be in grand shape and overshadowed a half dozen other good workouts by such contenders as Mate, Insco and Walter J Salmon's ladder, which was third in the Preakness.

Twenty Grand likes a fairly dry and fast track and probably will get it. The son of St. Germans-Bonus, coupled with Anchors Aweigh and Surfboard as the Greentree stable entry, was quoted a 5 to 2 favorite. Mate was second choice at 7 to 2 and strongly backed for the attempt to duplicate the feats of Sir Barton and Gallant Fox in winning both the Derby and Preakness.

Equipoise, despite some doubt as to his condition, was rated third in the wagering, at 4 to 1. The son of pennant has worked well enough to convince his trainer that he has a good chance to win.

ATHLETICS CAPTURE SIXTH STRAIGHT BY BEATING CHISOX, 5-2

Lou Gehrig Cracks Pair of Homers as Yanks Take 14-2 Win.

By The Associated Press

The Washington Senators had to go west to hit their stride in the American league pennant campaign. Playing against their strong eastern rivals, the Senators could get no better than an even break and were in the fifth place when they set out for their intersectional battles.

In the west Washington has won four games out of five—only a fair performance compared to the clean sweeps scored so far by the Philadelphia Athletics and New York Yankees—and has climbed up to third place. But Washington has been pitted against the two strongest western clubs, Cleveland and Detroit, while the Yanks and A's have been knocking over St. Louis and Chicago. The fourth victory yesterday, a 5-4 triumph over Cleveland, did not alter the standing, but it did give Washington the league leading pitcher. Sad Samuel Jones won his third straight game, allowing only eight hits.

Burnett Gets Homer

Burnett's homer in the second inning brought the only Cleveland scores until Jones eased up a bit at the finish. With the tying run on base in the ninth, Jones bore down to retire the last man.

The Athletics won their sixth straight game yesterday, downing Chicago 5-2 on a fine pitching performance by Rube Walberg. The win enabled them to retain their lead of a few points over the Yankees.

Big Charley Ruffing added another great pitching performance to the list of this year's mound achievements and Lou Gehrig clouted his fifth and sixth homers of the year to head the Yankee attack that brought a 14 to 2 victory over St. Louis.

Walberg Wins Fifth

Walberg won his fifth game for the champions against one loss. Al Simmons ended a possible pitching duel when he hit his sixth homer of the year in the fifth to join Gehrig at the top of the American league list and ruin the game for Vic Frasier. It was only the fourth triumph for Ruffing, who also has lost one, but it looked like a no hit win until the eighth when Lin Storti touched him for a single.

The Boston Red Sox, who have climbed from last place to sixth in their western tour, had only one good inning against Detroit but that was enough for a 4 to 3 victory. The Sox got to Waite Hoyt for five hits and four runs in the sixth.

Five National league games scheduled for yesterday were a complete loss as rain again swept the eastern sector, bringing the year's total of postponements up to 33 for the elder league.

BIRDS LACE MILLERS 21 TO 11 IN SLUGFEST

27 Safe Hits Rattle Off Bats of Columbus Hitters; St. Paul Wins.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, May 15—The Columbus Red Birds may not look like a very hot bet for the American Association title, but they have given the rest of the clubs something to fire at in the way of hitting in one game.

The Birds yesterday finished up their stay in Minneapolis by slamming five pitchers for 27 solid hits, including seven doubles, a triple and a pair of homers, to gain a 21 to 11 decision over the Millers. Eddie Delker, who has worked for the St. Louis Cardinals, exhibited great disrespect for the pitching offered by lacing out a home run, a triple and a brace of doubles.

Charles Arthur (the great) Shires led Milwaukee to a 13 to 8 triumph over Louisville with five singles, scoring once and driving in four runs.

Kansas City had plenty of boys on the bases, especially in the ninth, but could not hit when they counted and lost to Indianapolis, 7 to 6.

Johnny Prudhomme, late of the Detroit Tigers, kept eight Toledo hits far apart and St. Paul added a game to its lead over Louisville, with at 3 to 1 victory.

Wife Charges, Suing Former Grid Star for Divorce.

By International News Service

CHICAGO, May 15—George Trafton, a football star at Notre Dame and with the Chicago Bears, and a prizefighter is "just a gigolo" to his wife. But he also has a punch, she admits.

Both are suing for divorce and both are charging cruelty. Besides the "gigolo" accusation, Alice Trafton claims that George broke her jaw instead of Primo Carnera's in March 1930 and trained for his bout with Art Shires by punching her face.

TILDEN WINS NET CROWN

By International News Service

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 15—Big Bill Tilden today held the new world's professional indoor tennis championship. By registering his third straight victory over Vinnie Richards, of New York, at the arena, here last night, he dethroned his rival as champ. Bill took three sets to Vinnie's one. His scores were 6-4,5-7, 7-5, 6-2.

Loughran Is Favored To Win Over Campolo

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 15—Tommy Loughran, whose accurate left hand is a source of constant embarrassment to his fistic rivals, meets the huge Italian from the Argentine, Victorio Campolo, in a 10 round bout in Madison Square garden tonight.

Although Tommy will be giving away 40 pounds in weight, six inches in height and more than that in reach, the Clever Philadelphian rules 8 to 5 choice to win.

Loughran, who has won seven successive fights in an amazing come-back campaign after a knockout by Jack Sharkey, weighs a little more than 180 pounds as compared with the 225 or 230 pounds Campolo will weigh.

But Campolo's chief weapon is his right hand to the body and the right hand hitters have managed to land squarely on the speedy Philadelphian. Experts figure that Tommy will keep away from Campolo's heaviest jolts without particular trouble and score enough points with that left hand to walk off with the decision.

A victory for Loughran should re-establish him in the position he held before he was knocked out by Sharkey in 1929. Then he was rated on about equal terms with the Boston sailor, Max Schmeling and Young Stribling.

Rheumatism Goes Swollen Joints Vanish
How To End Rheumatism in Less Than a Week

If you suffer from torturing rheumatic pains, sore muscles or stiff inflamed joints, it's because your system is full of the dangerous poisons that cause rheumatism and make thousands helpless. What you need is RU-MA, and need it right now.

RU-MA acts on the blood, stomach, kidneys and liver, and drives the dangerous rheumatic poisons from the system through the natural channels of elimination — it eases pain the first day.

You must use an internal medicine to free the joints and muscles of crippling stiffness, soreness and torturing pain. That's why RU-MA succeeds while external remedies and pain deadening drugs give only temporary relief.

Henney & Cooper says no matter what kind of rheumatism you have, or how long you have suffered, try RU-MA—it must completely end all rheumatic agony or you get your money back.—Adv.

Gentlemen:
I welcome this opportunity to put on record the benefits I have enjoyed from using ZZZ tablets purchased at your drugstore.
About three years ago last September, my physician advised me that my complication of gall, liver and appendix ailments had reached a point that my only hope for recovery rested with the success of a serious abdominal operation His examinations showed my physical condition to be such that the hope of a successful operation appeared extremely doubtful.
With this discouraging prospect before me, I tried taking ZZZ tablets and have continued them until this time. I feel that I am completely cured of all my gall and liver ailments and am ready to verify this letter at any time and recommend your remedy to any who may inquire.
Yours very truly.
(Signed)

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meat, Grain, Livestock

An advance of one cent in butter was reported by dealers this morning. An additional advance of one and a quarter cents, was reported on Cleveland markets today, but had not affected the local prices. Butter was selling today at from 31 to 35 cents. Eggs were holding the same although a slight advance is being looked for by dealers before the close of the week.

Both vegetable and fruit prices were holding steady today. Supplies of all kinds were plentiful and dealers were placing their orders for supplies for the unusual heavy week-end buying Saturday.

New potatoes continue to become more plentiful although no price change was reported by dealers today, from 5 to 8 cents a pound was being asked. Old potatoes were not so plentiful today and the quality not so good, although the prices were being quoted at from 45 to 55 cents a peck.

Strawberries continue plentiful and dealers were planning on increased sales Saturday. The price is holding at from 25 to 30 cents a quart. A few pints at from 15 to 20 cents are still supplying a limited demand.

CANTON, O. May 15—A petition demanding that he dismiss Safety Director George F. Schoner and suspend Police Captain Ira Manderbaugh was before Mayor Herman R. Witter today. The petition, signed by five residents, charged that Schoner had interceded in behalf of persons arrested on liquor charges.

SHOWERS PUSH GRAINS DOWN

Canada Rain Reports Have Depressing Effect on Wheat Prices.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, May 15—Showers in Canada and weakness of stocks tended to depress grains early today. Declines were checked by reports that preceding the moisture in Canada heavy storms had prevailed. Starting ⅝ cents off to ⅛@¼ up, wheat afterward held near to the initial range. Corn opened unchanged to ⅜ down and subsequently fluctuated but little.

Wheat price upturns which followed an early sag were associated with reports that drouth districts in Canada, large areas of Alberta and Saskatchewan provinces especially, remained without adequate moisture. The average rainfall in the prairie provinces since April 1 was reported as 0.28 to 0.69 inches, compared with 1.81 to 2.70 inches during the same period last year. There were also advices from Salina, Kas., that wheat was not good on light rolling clay soils and on heavy soils recently wet and cold, both these soils being somewhat crusted.

Bulls in wheat made much of the Canadian forecast pointing to mostly fair and warm weather, conditions likely to intensify drouth and renew dust blowing. Word that traces of black rust had been found in Oklahoma wheat aroused interest but had no appreciable market effect. Corn and oats followed the action of wheat.

Dr. Sawyer To Assemble Questionnaire Answers

Head of City Betterment Group To Summarize Opinions of More Than 900 Marion Residents on Ways To Improve City; Hold Last Meeting.

The diagnosis of Marion has been completed. The announcement was made last night by Dr. Carl W. Sawyer at the conclusion of the ninth welfare meeting at the Sawyer Sanatorium, where he, as the head of a civic committee of 32, has called Marionites to discuss the city's situation and what can be done to better it.

1400 Participate

Fourteen hundred and twenty-one persons have actively participated in the diagnosis by attending the meetings. More than 900 have answered civic questionnaires issued by Dr. Sawyer. Through the meetings and the mail, Dr. Sawyer has directly, or indirectly through representatives contacted practically every resident of the city. The diagnosis has required more than two months' time.

The task of assembling information obtained in the diagnosis, and turning this information back to the citizenship with prescriptions for rejuvenating the city remains to be done.

Dr. Sawyer last night promised that all the information obtained in the series of meetings and through the questionnaires will be assembled and presented to the general public, sometime after the dedication of Harding Memorial, June 16. Preparations for the dedication and the Community Fund drive will command the attention of the city until after that time, Dr. Sawyer pointed out.

In the meantime, Dr. Sawyer will confer frequently with the committee of 32 civic leaders who early this year named him chairman to proceed with a plan to promote Marion's welfare.

Looks to Future

"Don't expect anything to happen in a hurry," Dr. Sawyer told his committee and those present at last night's meeting. "Great things," he continued, are not accomplished quickly. We're planning Marion for the next 10 years. The movement must start slowly, gain momentum, and must neve slow down until the objective has been reached.

"Before this thing has ended, Marion will set a standard for other cities to follow. Marion has responded wonderfully and is willing to help in any movement to better the city generally."

With this cooperation, Dr. Sawyer declared that "Marion can accomplish anything it wants to do for itself." Dr. Sawyer indicated that no one person will ever head the movement, nor will the movement fall in control of persons who might use it for personal or selfish gain.

Three speakers in the final meeting of the series last night deplored the low wage scale in Marion and declared that an equalization of wealth and wages is needed. They were Ralph Bennett of the Ohio Associated Telephone Co., William F. Orrison of the Ford Motor Sales, and Ralph K. Ruppart of the Central Labor Union.

Another speaker urged workers to assume a spirit of cooperation toward their employers instead of a militant attitude. He is Oscar J. Lusch of the Uhler-Phillips Co., who told the workers that attacking capital is attacking the pay envelope. There is too much worry about higher wages, longer vacations and shorter hours, he said.

Organization is essential in any sizeable project, William H. Pohler of the Erie railroad, another speaker, said. Pohler deplored the tactics of credit stores which solicit credit trade and then attempt to use employers as collecting agencies.

A plea for Marion to rally to the support of the rapidly disappearing professional musician in this city was made by N. M. Parshall of the American Federation of Musicians. He also urged loyalty to Marion merchants, asserting that many Marionites apparently believed in this sort of loyalty only for other persons.

The importance of cooperation of both individuals and organizations was pointed out by J. Malcolm Strelitz, the last speaker. Everyone has his problems in good times; these problems multiply in times of depression, Strelitz said. Everyone wants to help all possible, he continued, asserting that the cooperation of those who are being helped is essential in any movement.

A telegram from Grant E. Mouser Jr., unable to attend last night's meeting as a speaker, was read urging Marionites to "pull together" in the civic movement.

In publication last night of the announcement that the Ohio university string quartet will play over the radio, Sunday, a mistake was made in giving the time of the broadcast. The quartet will play at 9:15 p. m. Sunday instead of 9:15 a. m., the time incorrectly given in yesterday's report.

The broadcast will be from station WAIU, Columbus.

Prospect Street M. E. Church Class Meets

A program was presented at the meeting of the Sunshine class of the Prospect Street M. E. church last night at the church. Daily Proverb—"The wound that bleedeth inwardly is most dangerous."

Joseph B. Ely says that "chickens have learned highway safety faster than human beings." Maybe so, but what true aristocrat of the land wants to be classified with a chicken?

United States confidence men working in Nice, France, swindled a London broker out of $243,000 by working the putting-up-the-money-to-show-responsibility racket, a game so old that it antedates what we call civilization itself.

The oil well near Gladewater, Texas, which blew in unexpectedly more than two weeks ago, became ignited and cost the lives of nine men, has finally been brought under complete control. The march of progress must be served, but it might be served by taking precautions with far less life toll.

Federal Judge T. C. Munger, sitting in Lincoln, Nebraska, has dismissed the perjury indictments against George W. Norris, the grocer, who was a candidate against the senator of the same name, and Victor Seymour, a Republican party worker. But the thing wasn't a total loss to Senator Nye, of inquisitorial fame. He got the free advertising out of the investigation leading to the charges.

It might simplify matters were the government to place marines on duty about the embassies and legations in Washington to safeguard their liquor supplies. The secretary of state has enough to do without being compelled to make explanations and express regret to foreign diplomats over invasions of their supplies of liquid delight.

Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart, of Iowa, voices the belief that the self-styled "Progressives" will be able to force upon the Republican national convention one of their number to head the ticket, and intimates that Governor Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, or Senator George W. Norris, may be the nominee. If Smith Wildman is right, the Lord help us!

Flying the 600 miles from London to Berlin in two hours and fifty-seven minutes, Captain Frank M. Hawks, the American aviator, beat by several minutes the telegrams sent from London announcing the time of his start, and cut almost four hours off the time of the regular passenger planes. We may be hopelessly behind Europe in aviation, as we are so often told, but for some reason, Captain Hawks has thrown a mighty long sequence of surprises into European aviation circles.

To Discourage Hazardous Flying.

With the exception of those who may desire to attempt flights in quest of glory or the attainment of a degree of fame which may be commercialized, few will criticize the United States weather bureau for doing all in its power to discourage "foolhardy" projects, such as the proposed solo flight of a young American aviatrix across the Atlantic.

Advised that several women are contemplating solo transatlantic flights, Dr. Charles F. Marvin, chief of the weather bureau, has announced a definite policy, which the bureau will follow in the future, which will apply to all transoceanic flight attempts, regardless of the pilot's sex, which are for self-glorification or monetary consideration rather than the advancement of the art of oceanic flying, and solo flights over hazardous stretches of ocean appear to fall into this category.

This does not mean that the weather bureau will refuse to give weather information and forecasts in such cases. Dr. Marvin says that, if the decision rested on their personal attitude, the weather people would refuse this information, but that, as they have furnished it in the past, it is doubtful if they can refuse it in the future. He goes on to say:

"However strong our opinions may be as to the foolhardiness of an attempt, our right to withhold service might be questioned and we would surely be accused of discrimination by the participants and sponsors of the flight. Moreover, should we refuse help and the flight were attempted without it, we might be placed in a bad light should disaster occur because of weather."

But it is now very generally known that there are many ways in which the weather bureau may prove of great assistance in long flights in addition to giving out weather information and making forecasts. It is not difficult to understand that these additional means of aiding in flights will hardly be proffered for attempts at flights which the bureau considers hazardous. It is hardly probable that, having adopted a policy of discouragement of solo ocean flights considered hazardous, it will go out of its way to encourage those who may attempt such flights, and when this becomes thoroughly understood by fliers there will probably be less enthusiasm on their part about making attempts at flights within the bureau's hazardous classification.

For Pre-Primary Conventions.

Senator Robert A. Taft, of Cincinnati, has announced that he proposes to battle in the present session of the general assembly for an amendment to the state election laws which will make possible effective indorsement of candidates by the various parties by pre-primary conventions. As the amendment of the constitution is not contemplated in the Taft plan, it will not have to be submitted to a referendum, and as there has been growing dissatisfaction over the primary with both the major parties, there is far more of a chance for its success than might attend at this time a plan to do away with the primary entirely.

Should the proposed amendment be enacted, it would become effective in 1934 and permit state central committees in even-numbered years to order a state pre-primary convention, to be held not more than ninety and not less than sixty-five days before a primary, for the purpose of adopting a state platform and the designating of party organization candidates for all state offices and the United States senate. The delegates to the convention would be the members of the state central and state executive committees, the chairman and secretary of each county central committee and 500 delegates apportioned on the county vote for governor at the last preceding election.

Another provision permits any political party to provide by its rules for the holding of district pre-primary conventions to designate its choice of candidates for district offices—appellate judges, state senators and congressmen, and the amendment to be submitted provides that the candidates chosen by such pre-primary conventions shall have their names printed on the party tickets followed by the words, "convention candidate."

No attempt to change existing laws permitting candidates to get their names on the tickets for primary elections by the filing of declarations is contemplated.

The purpose of the amendment is to discourage the candidates representing special interests, groups or blocs and responsible to them only rather than to the party upon the ticket of which their names appear, such candidacies inevitably leading to minority government.

There can be no question of the unfairness of the present system, which permits of the saddling upon a party of a candidate over whom, if elected, it can not exercise control. Fairness demands that if a party is to be held responsible for the acts of a candidate, it should not only have a voice in his selection, but also be in position to hold him to account for failure to abide by the principles of the party as embodied in the party platform. In other words, no candidate has a right to utilize the prestige of a party and run on its platform unless he is willing to abide by the terms of its platform.

"Town hoodlums" are blamed for the burning of a building on the campus of Heidelberg college during the student insurrection up there. It's always easy to blame town hoodlums for any damage done at such times, but isn't student insurrection and violence ever an invitation to such hoodlumism?

First Abolish Franking.

When advocates of an increased postal rate present their arguments to the people they have to buck against a well-established conviction that the post office department loses a great deal of money needlessly through the franking privilege. Until that privilege is abolished—until the department shows expenditures clean from unnecessary burdens—there will be slight chance of boosting postal rates, no matter how sound the reasons.

Franking was first granted in the United States to soldiers engaged in the revolution. It was a dangerous privilege, and before the half of the nineteenth century had been extended to include nearly all officials and members of the public service. The abuse was intolerable, and the privilege was restricted in 1845. Subsequently, it has been granted and taken away, always with the conviction present among the taxpayers that their representatives were "taking care of themselves." Special privileges never are popular in representative governments. The whole idea is foreign to democratic principles.

Frederic A. Tilton, third assistant postmaster general, has warned of a postal deficit of $140,000,000 at the close of the present fiscal year. Last year's deficit was approximately $98,000,000. Mr. Tilton takes the opportunity to press for an increase in postal and parcel post rates. The matter will come up for hearing before the interstate commerce commission during the latter part of May, he says.

The postoffice department has its problems, beyond a doubt. If it were to seek a discontinuance of the franking privilege it would have to deal with the very people to whom the franking privilege means the most—the representatives and senators. But until the privilege is denied, arguments for an increased postal rate will get no popular reception.

"Home life," remarks the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, "is not simply a duty, it is a festival." Possibly we have here the reason why so many people are dodging it.

The Theater's Loss.

The death of David Belasco is a heavy loss to the American theater. He has strengthened it through a period by the presence and exercising of his genius.

The Belasco theatrical rule was simplicity itself. It consisted merely in giving the people what they wanted, but in examining the public's demands, the dominant producer paid little heed to those crying for the fifth that has helped bring the modern theater to grief.

The Music Master. The Girl of the Golden West. The Return of Peter Grimm. "Accused." The Heart of Maryland. Lord Chumley and "Andrea" are a few of the titles that brought him fame and wealth. As long and as impressive as the list of plays is the list of stars he developed. It would be difficult to name a theatrical figure of greater importance.

David Belasco lived his part. His flair for the dramatic pervaded all his thought and action. In appearance he was, perhaps, as colorful a figure as he himself could conceive. The only world with which he surrounded himself was a background painted by his own imagination. Brought up on life's stage [illegible] there is every reason to believe that he died happy, secure in the knowledge that he had worked well and profitably.

Editorial Opinion.

ROOSEVELT SLOWS DOWN.

The reaction of politicians with their ears to the ground is that Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt's whitewashing of Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, without investigating the truth of the charges made against him, has slowed down Roosevelt's race for the Democratic nomination for the presidency. While he is still the leading Democratic aspirant, the demand for him has cooled down perceptibly.

Whether his rejection of the charges was justified or not, his action has the appearance of covering the Tammany organization with a protecting wing. It identifies Roosevelt with Tammany to a degree that he had not been identified with it before. And doing this it weakens him with the rest of the country.

Roosevelt's big gain in strength outside New York has been in the Democratic South. He has gained in the South by giving the impression that he was ready to hedge on prohibition. But the South, more than any part of the country, hates the Tammany organization and doesn't want to vote for a Tammany candidate.

Maybe Governor Roosevelt can still become the nominee of his party, but 1932 now appears as a good year for a Democratic dark horse.—Des Moines Register.

THE "HUNGER MARCHERS."

The so-called "hunger marchers" have held their meeting on the state house steps. Their committees have been listened to by the legislature and by the governor.

Their number—about 200—was not impressive. White and black, men and women, with a proportion of their leaders speaking with marked foreign accent.

The "hunger march" in itself is not important. There is more than a suspicion that many of the delegates would rather march than work. Their leaders are of the agitator type. It is doubtful if they have contributed a constructive thought toward the solution of unemployment. But if we stop with these considerations we miss the point.

There are thousands of honest men out of work, and because of this there is state-wide suffering. Of all the people the "hunger marchers" are probably the poorest equipped to contribute to a solution of economic problems wisely. The point is that unless those who have brains use them, the unsound ideas of such as the "hunger marchers" may furnish even more serious problems to think about.

While, in a way, it may seem over gentle to feed, bed and turn a respectful ear to unbidden guests on a futile mission, we believe the authorities acted wisely on the side of kindness and the legislature would have been very unwise had it refused to recognize the constitutional right to petition.

No harm was done in letting the "hunger marchers" blow off steam in the capitol yard. And some good may have been accomplished if we think about what the "hunger march" symbolizes rather than about these particular marchers.—Columbus Citizen.

ANOTHER GREAT ARTIST PASSES.

The past year has taken heavy toll from the ranks of the older artists of the theater and concert stage. Now, Ysaye, one of the greatest violinists of the age, has passed on at seventy-three.

The way to success was paved for Eugene Ysaye from his very birth. His father was a successful violinist and conductor, and from him the boy inherited talent in abundance. Very early in life he was sent to the Liege conservatory and then came memorable years at Brussels under the masters Wieniawski and Vieuxtempt. He completed his studies in Paris on money provided by the state.

All the world soon knew Ysaye and many of his greatest triumphs were in America which, in those days, welcomed the foreign artist with open arms and showered him with gold and glory.

Ysaye's was a stupendous technique and he was an interpretative artist of compelling power and extraordinary personal magnetism. He was especially famed for a tone unusually large and capable of infinite variety of coloring. His compositions include six violin concertos, variations on a theme by Paganini, three mazurkas for violin, and his opera, "Peter, the Miner," written in Walloon dialect and produced at Liege last March. This latter he was destined never to hear except by radio from his sick bed, but it was his greatest triumph and death came with the applause of Europe ringing in his ears. — Columbus Dispatch.

The Word of God.

And now, Lord, what wait I for? My hope is in Thee. Deliver me from all my transgressions: make me not the reproach of the foolish.—Psalm 39:7,8.

Growth Hinges on Food.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Normal growth of a child is the most important function of his life. He must grow mentally as well as physically. Growth can not be hoped for without proper nourishment.

Popular interest in the nutrition of the school child has grown tremendously. An important topic at the recent convention held in Washington was the problem of school lunches and proper nourishment for the school child.

In former years the school physicians and nurses were interested primarily in the mere appearance of health. Today, in addition to this, they are concerned in the real state of nutrition. When this is established, they know good health is insured.

It is agreed that the problems of nutrition and health must be included in the general school instruction. This is best accomplished by teaching the parent, as well as the child, just what constitutes wholesome food.

Great advances have been made in establishing classes for undernourished children. These children are grouped together. In addition to their daily school work, they are given a special diet to improve their health.

Milk served during school hours has produced excellent results in overcoming undernourishment. This additional feeding teaches the child the importance of drinking milk.

This practice is of particular value for the child who dislikes milk. Seeing other children drink milk enoucourages him to do so. It won't be long before he develops a liking for it.

Good health habits must be taught to normal children. It is just as important to correct bad habits in sick children.

The future of the nation depends upon the health of our children. Correct physical and mental growth can be acquired only by proper supervision.

It is hoped that such problems as undernourishment, improper growth, diet deficiencies and nutritional disorders will eventually disappear. They will more rapidly disappear under the program now planned for our school children.

Liebnitz's Gift to Science.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

Beyond any doubt [illegible] ever made to the [illegible] the calculus. It [illegible] the inverse of [illegible] integral calculus. [illegible] instrument and [illegible] since at bottom, [illegible] essential nature depend[illegible] At its base lies the [illegible] which has been responsible for the greatest scientific advances, through[illegible] the ages.

A controversy, raging for more than two centuries, centered about the question of priority in regard to the invention of the calculus. Although many mathematicians are primarily Wallis in England and Fermat in France had employed in calculations principles differing almost not at all from those [illegible] solid foundations for [illegible] vention were laid by Sir Isaac Newton and Gottfried Wilhelm von Leibnitz.

A simple statement of Newton himself bears directly on the question. Says Newton:

"The correspondence was [illegible] ten years ago between [illegible] geometer G. W. Leibnitz and [illegible] had announced to him that I possessed a method of determining maxima and minima, of drawing tangents and of performing similar operations, which was equally applicable to surds and rational quantities [illegible] this illustrious man replied that he had also fallen on a method of the same kind and he communicated his method, which scarcely differed from my own except in the forms of words and notation and in the idea of generation of quantities.

This, however, did not settle the question of priority. Newton called his method that of Fluxions, Leibnitz called his that of Calculus. Undoubtedly the symbolism of Leibnitz was preferable to that of Newton, and this is demonstrated by the fact that the symbolism of Leibnitz prevails. A statement regarding the question of priority in the invention of the calculus was made by Brewster, Newton's biographer, who draws the conclusion which has won rather general acceptance.

First. That Newton was the first inventor of the method of fluxions, that the method was incomplete in its notation, and that the fundamental principle of it was not published to the world till 1687, twenty years after he had invented it.

Second. That Leibnitz communicated to Newton in 1677 his "Differential Calculus," with a complete system of notation, and that he published it in 1684, three years before the publication of Newton's method.

Leibnitz, born at Leipsic on July 1, 1646, was a mathematical genius, but his early training was in legal and practical matters. As official under the Duke of Brunswick-Luneberg at Hanover, he engaged in important public matters, as divergent as the drainage of mines and the reconciliation of the churches. His deepest interest lay in philosophical and philological studies.

Leibnitz has a place in the history of philosophy as the expositor of the doctrine of monads. This theory has cropped up again and again in the speculations of later philosophers and thinkers. Leibnitz was a great thinker. His great achievement of the invention of the calculus is sufficient greatness for any one man, although he was eminent in other lines. Leibnitz died at Hanover on November 14, 1716.—Copyright, 1931, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

When Sheridan Picked a Winner.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

When the outbreak of the Franco-Prussian war came in 1870, and it was determined that General Phil Sheridan should go to the theater of war as military observer for the United States army, President Grant sent for the general and Sheridan went to Long Branch for this purpose, it being mid-summer.

The first question the President asked him was which army he wished to accompany, and when General Sheridan said the German army, the President expressed his gratification for while he had of course intended to let General Sheridan make his own choice, his idea was that the German army was the one from which the most was to be gained. He had also a thorough dislike for Louis Napoleon, and regarded him as a usurper and a charlatan.

But General Sheridan's choice was based, and so he stated to the President, on something quite different. He was firmly of the opinion that the German army was going to be the conqueror. President Grant handed him a letter addressed to the European representatives of the United States, attesting the official capacity in which General Sheridan came, and with that, the conference closed.

But the press agencies carried the news of General Sheridan's coming to Europe, and acting on his own authority, E. B. Washburne, the United States minister at Paris applied to the French authorities for permission for General Sheridan to accompany their armies. It was not approved, though General Sheridan did not know it until after the close of the war.

The Germans were most cordial, and on reaching the frontier a note was handed the general, asking him to come at once to the headquarters of the king of Prussia, who was the next year to become the first kaiser of the German empire, and was the grandfather of the present ex-Kaiser Wilhelm. After the end of the war in a quick German victory, Sheridan went to visit in Italy, and when he reached Paris later, the German army was entering. Following that he went to Versailles, where he saw the new emperor, von Moltke and von Bismarck. The two former were unaffected by what had happened and treated it all as a part of the day's work, but Bismarck was elated and jubilant in the highest degree.

A girl in a movie ticket cage is safe from a drag from a cigaret. Robert Reed, a Hickory, North Carolina, boy, with a pink camellia bud in his lapel.

Whatever become of sleeve garters? Ring Lait, who can turn out a short story faster than any American writer. And is a grandpa. Nearly always a midget along west Forty-Seventh street. And I hear they are invariably able to make a good living despite their handicap.

Lads who drift to Times square around [illegible] looking for a break. And the former burlesque comedian who roams with clouded eyes [illegible] talking to an imaginary dog. Wonder how a fellow happens to take up cracking whips as a career? I love to pronounce Helen Gahagan's last name.

Hurried dunkers in "The Coffee Pots." Over perfumed ladies who dabble in henna and call their boy friends "Sugar." Broadway is more sinister after nightfall. By daylight it is as frank and open as a county fair. A policeman drags a giggling chorus girl along on [illegible].

Funny fellows with bloodless lips who are always perspiring. Any moment a prohibition officer may tap them on the shoulder. I'm getting the creeps. On a night like this I like to stretch out on the banks of the Ohio under a sky eyed with stars. Watching a golden moon shed petals along the lazy river. Or something.

Star gazers who occupy the benches in Bryant park these warmish nights are cheered somewhat by a strolling guitarist. He sings and thrums a short program without taking up a collection and moves on. To further the touch of romance to a crowded square he wears a black velveteen tam. And looks like Wallace Beery.

For many years, when weather and time permit, I walk the entire two mile stretch of the Harlem speedway, out of the pedestrians' jangle and offering a straight away stroll without crossing intersections. Another regular promenader is an elderly gentleman with whom I formed a bowing acquaintance. And now and then we exchange opinions of the weather. For several months I have missed him. Today he was there again to bestow a friendly smile and passing hand wave. And of such inconsequence is even a remote contact with cordiality in a big city's aloofness that I finished the walk in a sort of glow.

Percy Crosby gathers much material for his lovable cartoon character "Skippy" prowling around poorer districts of the East Side. Here childhood remains elemental. Kids are kids sans Eton collars, velveteen coats and varnished hoops.

Crosby a few years ago very generously asked me to express a preference for an original cartoon of his limning—which, incidentally, framed and autographed is one of my cherished possessions. My first choice was "Skippy" viewing a rural sunrise and exclaiming, "It is so beautiful I could bust somebody in the eye." But Mrs. Crosby had long ago claimed that one, and who could blame her?

Life once had a cover—I think by Crosby—showing the side yard of a village home with a tiny pair of pantelettes flopping on a clothes line. A tender sentimentalist of about six stood at the fence gazing at them. The caption was "Her's." No other picture, and I've trotted through the Louvre, Luxembourg and Florentine galleries, remains so fixed in my mind.

This column is couched today in idle vaporings about nothing in particular. In such a mood, were I a poet, I might snap out a verse with the crack of a whip. As it is I can only fumble along until I reach the end of the page which is, happily enough, right here, you big stiffs.—Copyright, 1931, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, May 15—In the latter part of last January a tall, square-shouldered man of dark complexion sat in the Haitian legation on Q street in the capital talking to newspapermen.

His quiet manner and broken English seemed hardly in accord with the statements he made. But then M. Dantes Bellegarde, Haiti's new minister to the United States was a high school teacher and college professor before he became a diplomat.

Much like a professor addressing his class, M. Bellegarde talked to the newspapermen.

"The occupation of Haiti—by United States marines—is unjustified. • • • It is based on a treaty imposed by force. • • • This treaty is bad. • • •

"President Hoover has undertaken to liberate Haiti. • • • We have absolute confidence in him. We believe in his promises. • • • When his labor will be completed, he will have his statue in the heart of each Haitian. • • •"

Less than three months later M. Bellegarde found himself the center of what is called in Washington a "diplomatic incident." And the other party to the "incident" is none other than the stormy, spectacular marine officer, Major General Smedley D. Butler.

The Haitian minister long has been outspoken in stating his personal position in the matter of marines in his country. He has expressed his opinions frankly and freely on many occasions.

His appointment to Washington to succeed Dantzler, who returned to Haiti to be a candidate for senator, was regarded generally here as portending a vigorous prosecution of the Haitian cause.

It is now evident that the minister succeeded in focusing attention on the marines.

M. Bellegarde, just past fifty-three years of age, has a military bearing, close cropped black hair and a small mustache. He speaks French fluently.

He was in the United States in 1927 as a delegate to a Pan-American commercial conference and met Herbert Hoover, who was then secretary of commerce.

His career in diplomacy extends over years. He has represented his country at and the Holy See. In 1922, 1925 and [illegible] was a delegate to the League of Nations. At one time he was a member of the league's [illegible] porary commission on slavery and forced [illegible].

Before entering diplomacy he was secretary of public instruction in Haiti. He has been professor of law and economics in the school of applied sciences at the national university.

He started as a teacher in the Port-Au-Prince high schools.

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, May 16

A DAY fraught with adventure and enterprise is forecast from the very lively sidereal operations. There may be stirring and far-reaching events with gain, advancement and probable change of environment and interests, but these are accompanied by a disruptive force which may complicate matters if rashly, impetuously and turbulently pursued. With calmness and self-restraint the promises for signal success, along conspicuous lines, are reasonably assured.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of splendid prospects with advancement, profit and desirable change, but the fruitful issue of these depends upon the ability to subdue tempestuous and rash tendencies of temper and speech. These, if indulged, may precipitate angry opposition or personal conflict, ultimately undermining the most auspicious possibilities for success. A child born on this day may be original, independent, ambitious, constructive and adventurous and should be taught to restrain its tendency to quarrels and violence.

To Attend Meeting—Dr. F. L. Thomas of 337 South Main street will leave Monday for Cincinnati where he will attend the annual meeting of the Ohio Eclectic Medical society, of which he is treasurer. The meeting will close Thursday afternoon.

Aristocracy is something that some people come by as naturally as good taste.

FLOYD DUFFEY NAMED EDITOR OF HERALD

High School Paper Head Selected After Trial Issues Are Published.

Floyd Duffey, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Duffey of South Prospect street, has been named editor of the Harding Herald, weekly high school newspaper. He succeeds Haver Alspach, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Alspach of South Vine street, and will take over his duties in September.

Miss Esther Topliff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Topliff of West Columbia street, has been selected as editor of the Quiver, year book of the high school.

Duffey was selected from three candidates to edit the Herald. Miss Topliff was the only candidate for the editorship of the Quiver.

Jay Howser has been chosen advertising manager and Ben Jacoby has been chosen business manager. Miss Topliff and Duffey will select their staffs next year.

Duffey was chosen editor after a study had been made of the three trial issues edited by the three candidates. His selection was made also upon the recommendations of the faculty. A theme, "If I Were Editor of the Quiver," won for Miss Topliff her position. Both students have been active in work on the Herald staff this year and are members of the Press club.

Of course... you can get along without Twin Ignition

... but you don't get along so well

You could, if necessary, see with one eye. You can drive with one hand. Two make a better job of it.

The same applies to Twin Ignition. People who drive the Nash Twin Ignition Eight-80 or Eight-90 (16 spark plugs, 16 firing points, instead of 8) have a distinct advantage over cars still using single ignition. The gasoline mixture is burned more quickly and more completely.

By engineering test, the same motor with Twin Ignition instead of single ignition, produces 22% more power, 5 more miles per hour top speed and 2 extra miles of travel from a gallon of gasoline.

Of course, you can get along without Twin Ignition. But we say, and these cars will prove it, that you don't get along so well!

Just compare the pep, power, smoothness and gasoline consumption of the Nash Eight-80 or Eight-90 with cars of the single ignition type at the same price, and you'll agree with us and with Nash owners, that here is a most desirable improvement.

Buy no car today until you have made this interesting comparison. We will gladly arrange a demonstration. Just phone . . . we'll send a car.

By Brush-Moore Leased Wire

THE world's greatest air show, to be staged by the army on May 23, will be broadcast throughout the nation by both National and Columbia broadcasting networks.

Announcers will be stationed on top of various skyscrapers, on the ground and in transport and bombing planes accompanying the fleets.

The National Air Races starting in Cleveland August 29 will be put on the air for 19 days by WTAM, WHK and WGAR and both chain systems are expected to take part in the broadcasts.

Helen Gahagen, star of the current Belasco hit, "Tonight or Never," will sing on the program of Nat Brusiloff Orchestra over the NBC-WJZ hookup at 7 p. m.

• • •

Federal Radio Commission has approved the removal of WGAR'S transmitter to a location four miles south of its present site, according to officials of that station. Interference from another station in the reception of WGAR programs, brought about the removal in order to overcome the difficulty.

• • •

Columbia presents the Adventures program over that network at 6:30 p. m. True story comes over the same hookup at 8 p. m.

Three new dance bands are being added to the NBC network programs from Chicago. They are: Ralph Williams Orchestra, Bill Donahue Orchestra and Charlie Agnew Orchestra. The exact time of the programs has not been set.
